

ACTED FAVORABLY ON NOMINATIONS

SENATE TODAY CONFIRMED APPOINTMENTS OF GOV. MC GOVERN.

SUPREME COURT ADJOURNS

Will Take Up Civil Service Case on Reconvening April 21—Eight Bills Passed by Legislature.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)
Madison, April 12.—The state senate confirmed the nominations of McGoVERN of six members of the state fish commission and that of Louis F. Meyer of Milwaukee as state oil inspector. Among the appointments to the fish commission were those of J. O. Davidson and G. W. Peck.

Arguments Grew Warm.
The senate also participated in a heated discussion of the Martin bill providing non-partisan elections in all cities of the state. Senator Blaine was the principal opponent of the measure. Before any definite action had been taken the body adjourned to continue the discussion tonight.

Supreme Court Adjourns.
The state supreme court adjourned until April 21 when it will reconvene and take up the case of the civil service commission to determine the constitutionality of the law cheating the commission. The case came to light when the attorney general declared the law unconstitutional and ordered the secretary of state to discontinue auditing the bills incurred by members of the commission.

No Spring Shooting.
By a vote of fifty-six to thirty-three the assembly killed the Clarke bill for a spring shooting season of five days. The senate recently killed a ten day bill which now makes it certain no such legislation can pass at this session.

Eight Bills Passed.
Eight bills were passed by the assembly without debate. Among the more important were: No changes in the freight rates until... by the railroad commission. Prohibiting the sale of liquor to Indians not under federal jurisdiction. Placing the health commissioner in Milwaukee on a salary basis. Permitting notaries public to issue non resident fishing licenses and requiring hunters shipping deer to make affidavit that they shot the deer.

HOW WILL DECISION AFFECT WISCONSIN?

Will Federal Court Curtail Powers of State Rate Commissioner Is Important Question.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 12.—How far the federal court decision in the Minnesota rate cases will affect the status of the Wisconsin railroad commission, whose rate-making power has been upheld by the state courts, is a question of considerable moment here just now. Chairman J. H. Rosmer of the commission today declined to comment on the decision until he had received a copy of the opinion and dissected its contents.

It is known, however, that the Wisconsin commission has long held the opinion that the regulating of certain rates by the commission on interstate railroads, even though they be between points within this state, is not exactly a proper exercise of authority. It has been the personal belief of one or two of the members, at least, that in such matters some federal authority, such as the interstate commerce commission, should be consulted, on the theory that the raising or lowering of any rate on a railroad which does an interstate business affects that road's income as a whole and therefore becomes an interstate matter.

Mr. H. H. Meyer, until recently a member of the Wisconsin commission and now on the interstate body, is known to have inclined somewhat to this view, and has given the question considerable study. In this connection, attention has been called to a significant point in a paragraph from a report presented at the last meeting of the National Association of Railway Commissioners, which was signed by Ira B. Mills of Minnesota (chairman) Prof. Meyer and several others, which is as follows:

"In order to bring about uniformity and harmony of action between the respective states, on the one hand, and the federal commission on the other, with respect to rates, we respectfully submit the suggestion that the interstate commerce commission delegate competent persons to cooperate with the respective state commissions in all important rate controversies which involve both state and interstate rates."

The decision of Judge Sanborn in the Minnesota cases of course will not affect the power of the Wisconsin commission to regulate rates on railroads whose lines lie entirely within this state, nor its authority to regulate other public utilities. However, unless the United States supreme court reverses the mandate, Wisconsin's recent rate law will likely go by the board, and the railroads will be able to restore other freight and passenger rates which have been changed by the commission in the last half-dozen years.

HOLY WEEK BEING OBSERVED IN CITY

Union Services Started Yesterday in the Methodist Church. The churches have services. The union services which are being held during Passion week in the several churches opened Monday at four o'clock in the afternoon at the Methodist church. The attendance was particularly good both in the afternoon and evening. Rev. T. D. Williams presided over the meetings and in the afternoon a very strong address by Rev. J. W. Laughlin on "The Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem" was the feature. In the evening at 7:30 at the same church, Rev. J. C. Hazen delivered a very good sermon, having for his subject, "The Challenge of Christ's Authority."

This afternoon the services are being conducted at the Baptist church, Rev. J. C. Hazen presiding. The sermon for the afternoon is on "The Greatest Commandment" by Rev. T. D. Williams. This evening at the Baptist church, commencing at 7:30, services will be held and the address of the evening will be by Rev. David Denton on "The Parable of the Talents." Great interest is being manifested throughout the city in these combined services and the attendance at all of them so far has been good. All for the churches in the city are observing this week and are holding appropriate services. The following notice has been received announcing the plans for the week in Howard Chapel: Howard Chapel will hold its first Passion week service on Good Friday evening at 7:30. C. H. Howard the superintendent, if he is able to be out, will have charge. It is to be a Congregational service. While there is a distinctive Methodist Episcopal church class organization and all services are loyal thereto, yet as has been stated at the time of the dedication of the Chapel and many times since by pastoral letter and platform utterances, the doors are open wide and all denominations whether Protestant or Catholic, are given a Christian welcome and invited to help give Spring Brook toward a social, moral, intellectual and Christian protective uplift. Believing that the great want of the homes, a practical Christianity most loyal to Christ, we bespeak for Howard Chapel a heart interest by all those who love right and truth and righteousness.

"MAUNDY" IS DERIVED FROM OLD CUSTOMS

Feet of Poor Used to be Kissed and Washed on This Day. Maundy Thursday comes tomorrow. Maundy originally meant a command, the old French of which was "mande." The command which caused the Thursday before Easter to be named Maundy Thursday was that to wash the feet of the poor and kiss them. This custom was kept up for hundreds of years on Maundy Thursday. The first word of the feet washing service of the old church was "Mandatum," giving rise to "Maundy."

So late as the day of "good Queen Bess" the mandatum was carried out. Queen Elizabeth is recorded as having, on the Maundy Thursday of her thirty-ninth year, washed and kissed the feet of a number of the poor who assembled at the gates of her palace in Greenwich. King William left the washing to his almoner, and this arrangement continued until the advent of Queen Victoria to the throne, when it was dropped in England. A certain amount of money is distributed to the poor on that day, however. Now less uniform forms of devotional services are held.

In old England buns were marked with a cross for Maundy Thursday, and although the reason why buns are marked this way has nearly died from the minds of American descendants of the old English, it is a fact that in many American homes buns so marked are eaten on the Thursday preceding Easter. And many a one who did not know the origin of the rhyme has chanted the folk song which begins:

Hot cross buns!
Hot cross buns!
One penny, two a penny,
Hot cross buns!

Hot cross buns!
Hot cross buns!
If you have no daughters,
Pray give them to your sons!

OBITUARY.

EMPLOYEE LONG IN SERVICE PENSIONED

Chicago & Northwestern. Carl Palmer, Who Has Been in Employment of Northwestern Road Here Over Forty Six Years Has Been Pensioned.

Carl A. Palmer, machinist, who has been in the employ of the Northwestern road here for the past forty-six years and four months, has been pensioned by the company in recognition of his faithful services. Mr. Palmer had been actively engaged in work at the South Janesville round house until the latter part of last year. He was injured in the shop car wreck on Christmas day and on account of advanced years his injuries proved more serious than they would have been otherwise, and as he is past sixty-eight he was pensioned by the company, taking effect from the first of April.

Mr. Palmer was not only one of the oldest employees of the road at this point, but he has been one of the most loyal and faithful. He is a general favorite with the men at the round house and on the road and his friends in this city are legion. For several years he occupied the position of foreman at the old shops, but not finding the work agreeable he resigned and took up his former position as machinist. He was also one of the best mechanics of the force and his long experience with the work made him especially valuable.

Although he will now cease active duties at the shops Mr. Palmer still continues to have a keen interest in the affairs of the road and is a frequent and welcome visitor at the roundhouse. The entire force there regret to lose his companionship as a fellow-workman, but extend best wishes for extended years of happiness.

CAR CRASHED THROUGH ACADEMY STREET GATES

Defective Brake Was Cause For Accident Which Broke Off Gates At Crossing and Damaged Car. One of the street cars in charge of Conductor Harry Marshall crashed through the gates at the north side of the Academy street railroad crossing this morning, breaking off the arms close to the standards and smashing the front windows of the car. The gates were down and plenty of time was given it to stop the car. The brakes refused to work, however, and the car broke through the arms. No one was injured although the motor man had a narrow escape from the broken glass.

George Hood who has been laying off for the past two days has returned to work.

George Messinger, machinist helper, has resumed his position.

Engine 282, class R. L. of the Wisconsin division, is out of the shops after a general overhauling.

Switch engine number 167, is in the shops for light repairs.

Conductor M. F. Carroll of the Northern Wisconsin division has been confined to his home here for the past two weeks with grippe.

A thurmit weld was made on the frame of engine 263 last week. It was done in one half the time as the one made on engine 300 and was most successful.

Morris McCarthy has been added to the force at the roundhouse as machinist's helper. Theodore Bush has also been added to roundhouse force.

Flagman John Dohs has returned to work at the five points crossing.

Yardmaster J. J. Burns is in Chicago on business and is relieved by Switchman Ed. Horn. Switchman Briggs is taking Horn's place.

Switchman Clough is still on the sick list.

Switchman Leighthelmer has been loaned to the half and half and Switchmen Griffen and McTaggart have the seven o'clock job at the yards.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. JOHN DEVINS HAS RESIGNED POSITION AT ROUNDHOUSE

Will Depart For Minneapolis Next Monday Where He Has A Place With Minneapolis Traction Company.

John Devins, who for the past two years and a half has been employed at the St. Paul roundhouse as clerk, has resigned his position and will leave for Minneapolis on Monday, where he accepted a place with the Minneapolis Traction Company. Devins has been a faithful servant of the road here and has many friends who extend best wishes to him in his new position. Frank Baker will take his place at the St. Paul roundhouse here.

Trains 105, 110, 124, 128, 161 and 121, passenger, between here and Davis Junction, are bulletined for a fireman with Engineer Gregory, in place of Wm. T. Muehlen, deceased.

Engine 147 was brought here from Beloit for repairs this morning and engine 52 doubleheaded 121 back to Beloit.

Jas. McCarty is among the number who will lay off Easter Sunday.

NO MORE GREEN TEA TO BE SHIPPED IN

Lovers of This Brand Must Find Another as no More Will be Imported After May 1.

With the ban placed upon the importation of green tea into this country, taking effect May 1st, it may not be long before Janesville people who claim that as their favorite beverage will be forced to change their brand or make up their mind that they can get along on the same kind even if it is not of a greenish hue. Following an order of a board of tea importers in the east, no more of what is known as green tea may be brought into the United States. This will in no way detract from the mild and lingering taste to be gained from the green tea but the leaves will be of a pale yellow hue instead of green.

According to the New York Times the tea board at Washington, which consists of seven tea experts appointed at the instance of the more reputable tea merchants of the country to keep the standards of tea sold in this country as high as possible, ruled recently that, in order to avoid the confusion of having to label each package of green tea as "artificially colored," it would be better to order the Chinese and Japanese tea growers to cure the tea without coloring it.

Black tea has been cured simply by drying it in the sun. But green tea has been cured by the Japanese and Chinese by a quicker process. The fresh plucked tea leaves are put in a pot over a fire. As they are dried the Chinaman or Japanese who stands over the pot rakes over the leaves constantly with his fingers and sprinkles them with small pinches of a certain mysterious powder.

No little of this powder is used that one pinch will color a whole chest of fifty pounds. So little is the exact nature of this powder understood by accident that none of the tea importers could tell of what it was chemically composed.

It is the use of this powder by the Chinese and Japanese that the tea board at Washington is going to stop. The board made an agreement with the tea merchants of the country that no more tea colored and preserved with the powder should be imported and sold in this country after May 1. The board also warned the business men of China and Japan who oversee the picking and preserving of the tea leaves, that they must find another way to preserve green tea.

No circular letter or word of any kind has been received by the tea merchants of this city from the eastern importers. Still they are all acquainted with the ban which has been placed on the importation of this kind of artificially colored tea and think that as soon as the stock of the leaves already here in the United States is used up, that there will be no more of the green variety seen in this country.

His Changing Moods.

A man of moods is the German workman, who, after dancing until three o'clock the other morning at a wedding at Landeshut, went out into the garden and hanged himself. He was discovered unconscious, and as soon as he was released he returned to the party and resumed dancing.

CAUSES ARREST OF OF MAN TO GET RING

Colt Couple in Squabble Over Jewelry Which Young Man Refuses to Return to Girl.

Because he refused to return a ring which she had given him about six months ago, Ester Andre of Beloit, caused the arrest of Walter Schonfeldt of the same city on a petty larceny charge, the latter having his preliminary examination set for this morning before Judge Ross. The examination was done away with however, pending the peaceful settlement of the quarrel of the former lovers.

Some time last fall in the course of the courtship of Schonfeldt, Miss Andre bestowed upon him the ring as a token of her esteem. The trouble arose when the order of the young man cooled, and he still retained the ring. Repeated attempts on the part of the girl to regain the article of jewelry were met with rebuffs.

It is thought now, that the affair will be settled outside of court and that the man will not be held.

Lest You Forget

We Tell Again the Story of

the Skavlem Piano Club

Grandma and Ruth enjoy playing duets on the Club Piano.

The Skavlem Piano club is meant to be the inaugural of the naming of the club piano and the opening of a new Piano Store in Janesville.

We bought 200 pianos for this big movement.

The pianos are of the most reliable and trustworthy sort—worth 375 dollars each.

To sell them and sell them quickly we planned and organized a gigantic club. A club of 200 members, each and every member to enjoy the same advantages and privileges.

We decided to sell the pianos in this way, at 277 dollars and 50 cents each.

We arranged to sell them WITHOUT ADDING INTEREST to the price asked.

We placed the payments at 5 dollars as the first payment, and 1 dollar and 25 cents a week for the remaining payments.

The price (277.50) included everything—charging nothing more for any privilege extended members. We agreed to give club members their MONEY BACK if a 30 days' trial of the piano was unsatisfactory.

We arranged a YEAR'S EXCHANGE privilege for members, which enables them to exchange their pianos at any time within one year without meaning one penny's loss.

We Got Up a Life Insurance Feature for Members, Which Cancels All Payments in Event of the Death of a Club Member

We figured out a rebate system so that those who want to pay faster than $1.25 a week will profit by it by getting a REBATE OF 15 CENTS IN CASH HANDED BACK FOR EACH AND EVERY WEEK THEY PAY IN ADVANCE.

Boiling the whole plan right down, we put into the plan every advantage and privilege that would suggest itself to us to make this big inaugural sale an INSTANT SUCCESS.

AND IT HAS BEEN.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE MEMBERS HAVE ALREADY JOINED THE CLUB.

Cannot we have your application? Can we not at least show you the pianos and go over the whole proposition with you?

If you pay cash for your club piano, its pro-rata value will be refunded to your family in cash in event of your death. Suppose a club member, pays cash or nearly all cash, he does not lose the full benefits of the Life Insurance feature.

The Life Insurance feature extends over a period of 218 weeks—the life of the club.

If a club member pays up in a shorter time, his life insurance goes on just the same for 218 weeks.

Thus, if he were to pay spot cash he would be entitled to the protection of the Life Insurance feature for 218 weeks.

Now suppose he were to die at the end of the year, or 52 weeks. He would, therefore, have paid for his piano 166 weeks in advance of the time he was entitled to, and would thus be entitled to get back 166 times 1 dollar and 25 cents, or 207 dollars and 50 cents.

We would, therefore, immediately, upon proof of his death, send our check, payable to his family, for 207 dollars and 50 cents. And this is not all.

By this thirty club member having paid in advance, he got a rebate of 15 cents a week for each and every week he thus paid in advance.

For these 166 weeks he therefore saved, 166 times 15 cents, which amounted to 24 dollars and 90 cents.

Thus we would be sending our check to his family, in event of his death, for 207 dollars and 50 cents for what cost him only 182 dollars and 60 cents—or—24 dollars and 90 cents more in cold cash than he paid.

DENIED SIGNING THE STATEMENTS

MEN WHOSE NAMES WERE ON LETTER CRITICISING MR. BARLASS' MANAGEMENT OF POOR FARM SAY THEY WERE FORGERIES.

LEGAL ACTION EXPECTED

Superintendent Says That Smith Was Instigator of the Trouble and May Take Steps to Punish Him.

As an informant of the letter in which Superintendent Barlass at the County Poor Farm was charged with all sorts of mismanagement of the affairs of the institution comes the statement from five of the signers of the document who say they did not sign it themselves or did so under duress. They are: J. E. Cunningham, another inmate, who had alleged mismanagement and whose case had been investigated by the state board of control.

Steve Canfield stated that he did not sign the letter although his name appeared on the document. David West was also insistent that he had signed no such letter although his name also appeared and John Triscott, three other signers stated that they had understood from Smith that it was merely a letter in which they stated that as far as they knew Cunningham was not a disturber.

Just what steps Mr. Barlass will take to punish Smith, who appears to be at the bottom of the whole, is not known. He will advise with the district attorney to see what steps he can take before taking any definite action. It would appear that Smith should be disciplined and that Mr. Barlass should have the power to punish him or send him away from the poor farm.

The publication of the alleged mismanagement caused considerable comment on the streets Tuesday and when the statement of the real conditions appeared in the Gazette last evening the criticism of the contributors was even more pronounced. The unjust statement of language attributed to Mr. Barlass was resented by all her friends.

William Yuengst, one of the signers and also one of the men punished by Barlass for disobedience, was a hard working man until his disability many years ago. He supported his mother and was a good citizen. Since his disability he has lived in the farm for the past two years.

Mr. Barlass, C. E. Langworthy and Robert Moore went to Ft. Atkinson today to look after farm furniture for the new barns to be erected at the county farm and when Mr. Barlass returns tomorrow he will confer with his attorney relative to the legal phase of the matter.

PAINTERS ANSWER THE CONTRACTORS

Employees Seek To Justify Their Request for One Scale of Wages.

The statement by the master painters to the effect that attempt on the part of the painters to fix one wage scale to work in all cases is unjust on account of the difference in the work of the several men, has called forth an answer on the part of the striking painters. It is held by the employees that it is unfair for them to ask one wage, it is also unfair for the contractors to charge one price to those for whom they do the work. Following is the statement:

"While the master painters are paying various scales of wages to the men according to their competency, they always charge their customers the same price per hour for each workman no matter how skilled or how incompetent he may be. We hold that such a system is unjust not only to the painters but also to the public, which pays the high prices demanded and suffers from poor work by inexperienced workmen.

In answer to the claim by the master painters that the painters are unreasonable in asking for the close cut shop the officers of the local union state that a closed shop is a benefit to the public in that contractors cannot in that case send out on jobs men who are not up to the standard of competency of the union. People work in the union does not make any attempt to dictate to the painting contractors what men they shall employ because at all times they have the right to let any man go who is incapable of earning the minimum wage asked by the union. In this way the union claims that the houses will have all reasonable control over their own shops and will not be ruled arbitrarily by the union leaders.

APRIL MEETING OF LOANI BAND HELD

Interesting Program of Talks, Music and Living Pictures by Woman's Organization of Congregational Church.

The April meeting of the Loani Band of the First Congregational church, held last evening, proved a most interesting one. After the ten at 8:15, at which Mrs. George Hatch and Miss Katharine George were hostesses, an unusually interesting program, with Mrs. J. A. Craig as leader, was presented upon the topic, "The Women Behind the Work." Sketches on the lives of those women were given and the living pictures, under colored lights, representing the missionaries, were especially good. The following is the program of the evening:

Biography of Dr. Eleanor Chestnut, the martyr missionary, read by Miss Mabel Lee.
Picture—Mrs. O. A. Oestreich.
Song—"The Day is Ended"—Miss Ada Lewis.

Sketch of the life of Mrs. Dorcas, founder of the first Woman's Missionary Society, given by Mrs. O. E. O'Brien.
Picture—Mrs. A. J. Ingersoll.
Instrumental duet—Miss Grace Murphy and Miss Gladys Franklin.
Biography of Isabella Thoburn, pioneer in missionary education, was read by Mrs. Will Thoburn, followed by a picture representing Miss Thoburn (Mrs. Isabella Thoburn) and Lillian Smith, a convert in native costume (Mrs. John Dixon).

Vocal solo—Sunbeam—Mrs. Chas. Mohr.
Accompanied, Miss Pearl Peters.
Sketch of the life of Dr. Clara Swain, the pioneer medical missionary, was given by Miss Grace Spoon. The picture following represented Dr. Swain attending the princess—Mrs. Sol Spoon and Miss Edna Rogers.

The Army's Eyes and Ears.

The cavalry has always been the eyes and ears of the army. A screen of men on horseback can travel far in advance of a marching army, and by their great ability to get around quickly, discover, without grave danger to themselves, dangers to the slower army coming behind. They can figure out the lay of the land, sight the enemy ahead, and learn in importance and one thing of vital importance to the general in command. The problem has always been to get the information back in time to be of service.—From C. H. Claudy's "The Service of an Army," in St. Nicholas.

LIT MATCHES NEAR A GASOLINE TANK

Drunken Man Arrested Last Night Had Close Call While Trying to Find Sleeping Quarters in Auto Shed.

"Firing With Death, or Adventures With the Deadly Gasoline Can," was the theme of the story told in municipal court this morning of Thomas Hardyman, who was arraigned and found guilty to a charge of drunkenness. Hardyman asked Janesville Jail and found himself with no money after he had accumulated a comfortable "jug." He had no money to pay for lodging and no place to go, so one of the hangers-on of the saloon where he made known his predicament offered to take care of him. The man took Hardyman up to the back of the automobile shed, pushed Hardyman in, Hardyman commenced to look for a place to rest himself and lit matches with a few feet of a large tank where Mr. Lane had stored gasoline. The bare of the matches, however, attracted Mr. Lane's attention before a casualty resulted and while Mr. Lane was telephoning the police, Mr. Lane kept Hardyman a prisoner until the officers arrived. Hardyman made arrangements to pay a fine of $3 and costs of $1.

Mike O'Brien, teamster and formerly railroad laborer at Palatine, was another who sought a daytime couch after a spree. He chose the street, however, and might have lain out in the wet but Saday Bros., near whose store O'Brien lay, telephoned the police. Ed Hullen carried the man on his shoulders to the police station as O'Brien was too "full" to walk.

Murray, circus hand, was given thirty minutes to get out of town. Murray was another who sought protection from public diseases which the damp air is likely to bring on. A commitment for a jail sentence of six days in default of payment of a fine of $5 and costs, was held by Chief Aldrich while Murray secured a "tile rack" out of the city.

Robert Courtney, "old offender," told the judge he had had only one glass of ale when arrested, but finally decided to plead guilty and was given five days to sober up. Joe Callahan, another who has appeared in court before for being drunk, went to jail for six days because he lacked the fifty here to negotiate the payment of a $3 fine with costs of $1 attached.

MANN IS LIBERAL TO INSURGENTS

House Assignments Announced
by Minority Leader.

ALL READY TO BEGIN WORK

Cannon Is Assigned to Appropriations Committee, Madison and Lenroot
on Rules and Norris on Judiciary.

Washington, April 12.—House Minority Leader Mann has announced the Republican assignments to committees. Every leading progressive or "insurgent" was given an important committee. The house elected the committees, both Democratic and Republican members, without change or objection.

Mr. Mann's action has done more to heal the Republican ranks in the house than has anything during the past four years. The insurgent leaders are gratified and are full of praise. They were surprised at the wholesale way in which Mr. Mann went at his work of giving them recognition.

Cannon on Appropriations.
Mr. Mann takes as his only committee assignment that of chairman of the conference of the minority. It is a new chairmanship and indicates Mr. Mann's purpose to substitute conference of party leaders for party caucuses on legislative matters wherever possible. Former Speaker Cannon was given ranking minority membership on the appropriations committee, an assignment for which he asked, and nothing else. It is evident he was not consulted in the making up of other committee assignments.

Two progressives were given positions on the committee on rules—Madison of Kansas and Lenroot of Wisconsin. With Dalzell of Pennsylvania and Wilson of Illinois, regulars, they make up the Republican membership of the committee. The progressives have insisted the rules were not what they should be and Mr. Mann offers them an opportunity to modernize the rules.

Norris Gets Judiciary.
Norris of Nebraska is given a place on the judiciary committee; Cooper of Wisconsin, foreign affairs; Good, Iowa, appropriations; Gardner, Massachusetts, immigration and library; Haugen, Iowa, agriculture; Hubbard, Iowa, insular affairs and expenditures in the department of justice; Hayes, California, banking and currency; Murdoch, Kansas, post offices and post roads; Morse, Wisconsin, insular affairs and war claims; Davis, Minnesota, insular affairs and expenditures in the state department.

Victor Berger, the Socialist, is given a place on the District of Columbia committee. Henry George, Jr., of New York, is on this committee also. Washington may become the trial grounds for some new theories in municipal government.

The leaders in the work of framing the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, which caused a protest throughout the country, are retained on the ways and means committee. Payne is ranking minority member, with Dalzell, McCall, Hill, Needham, Fordney and Longworth, all standpatters and high protective tariff men.

Powers of Kentucky was put on immigration and education, upon which committees there are no Kentucky Democrats. The latter had declined to serve on a committee with Powers.

THEATER

SCENE IN "THE HOUSE" NEXT DOOR," AT THE MYERS MON-DAY, APRIL 17.

Patrons of the theatre are promised a treat in the forthcoming production at Myers Theatre of the play "The House Next Door," a modern comedy by J. Harley Manners. This play has enjoyed long and successful runs in New York and Chicago and is now being sent on tour for the first time. People who have seen this play claim that it contains the happy combination of being very entertaining and amusing at the same time pointing out a moral lesson which is at once instructive and of benefit in one's everyday life. It is these two qualities which probably have made it so successful, attracting the attention of the most critical and observant of our theatre goers. "The House Next Door" will be presented at Myers Theatre Monday evening, April 17.

Daniel Boone on the Trail comes to the Myers Theatre Saturday, April 15th, matinee and evening. This great romance of Colonial days is filled with thrilling heart climaxes that stir the souls of men. A tribute to Sioux Indians from the Western wilds are carried and worked into the exciting scenes of the play. A pack of large Siberian wolves, a den of bears and a number of St. Bernard dogs are carried and also worked in the different scenes that keep the audience wild with excitement and wonder.

Never has there been a production that has gone as deep into details as Daniel Boone on the Trail. Boone's realistic fight for life with the pack of wolves, the throwing of his daughter into the den of bears, the banding of his cabin by real Indians, are some of the many exciting scenes that are featured.

Boondoggling Elk, the great Sioux warrior is with the company and chief of the tribe of Red Indians. He fought against Custer in the battle of the "Little Big Horn" where occurred the massacre of Custer and all his men except one who lived to tell the tale. Boondoggling Elk in his native tongue says: "I saw Custer fall and he laughed as he fell." The Indians and wild animals carried may be seen on the streets the day of the show.

THE MISSOURI GIRL.

The Missouri Girl is a comedy drama that produces more genuine laughter than anything yet written. In connection with the strong and interesting plot, it contains the most ludicrous situations ever conceived. The company presenting the play this season is composed of the best known people in the theatrical profession, who are fully able to extract this fun and deal it out to the public in a most satisfactory manner. Nine of the old favorites remain in the cast; some of them have played their respective roles continuously for eight seasons. This guarantees a first class performance. The new people added for this season were selected for their peculiar fitness for the roles they are to assume and it is safe to predict that "a better than ever" line can safely be added to the advertising matter. The Missouri Girl will be seen at Myers Theatre tonight.

Tallow Will Remove Ink.

To remove ink spots from wash goods melt a piece of tallow and plunge the ink spot in the hot fat, then wash the piece at once and the ink will disappear unless it is a colored garment which will not wash; then drop melted wax on the spot, let it become hard and remove with a sharp knife. The ink will be soaked up by the wax, and if any stain remains from it, place a clean piece of blotting paper over it, and press with a hot iron to draw it out.

VALUABLE EDGERTON DOGS ARE POISONED

Lawless Parties in Edgerton Are Committing Depredations—Personal News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, April 12.—A general slaughter of dogs was instituted in this city the first of the week by some irresponsible party or parties and the number thus far killed by poison is swelling daily. Among the number that met his fate is the valuable hunting dog and family pet belonging to George Underhill; Dan, the family pet, was bought in Colorado three or four years ago and every season when the family spent the winter in Colorado Dan would accompany them. Mr. Underhill and family feel greatly grieved over the loss and say a family pet like Dan can never be replaced.

The Handy Home.
Our homeliness as a nation rests on the home, as any one can see who will soberly consider what also there is which can be so handily mortgaged to buy an automobile.—Puck.

HOW many men are there in Janesville, who say, and honestly think, that they are doing all the business they can, or who are under the impression that they have all the business they want.

Working Under Wrong Impressions.
There is an inconsistency in the very thought itself. If the man still remains in business, the man who is progressive, who is boosting his business as well as the town itself, cannot realize that there are still some men left who labor under this impression, or use it as an excuse for lack of energy or ideas to boost.

Working Intelligently.
Marshall Field started out in life as a merchant with a basket on his arm. When his business got too big for the basket, he rented a little store, and when the business was too big for the little store he rented a bigger store. And finally when he had a store occupying a whole city block, and even that was too small, he built it larger. He didn't stop simply because of a little thing like "having all the business he could handle." He hired men to handle it for him. Marshall Field was a big man. Not all men can be as big. Not all men can grow, because there are little men with little ideas and little business.

Growth Is Essential.
If all men stopped when they had all the business they could handle, we would not have big stores, big institutions, big railroads. In other words, we would not have civilization. The world owes a debt to the man who can grow, who is always bigger than his business.

Every business man who is industrious and efficient can get more than all the business he can handle. The successful business man of today must be a manager of men and of business affairs, not a clerk, working in his own store.

Overcoming Obstacles.

Janesville needs progressive business men to make it bigger and better. The public likes to do business with a winner, with a business man who is big enough to grow. Growth in business means overcoming obstacles such as lack of room, lack of proper help, lack of facilities. If a man is broad minded enough and resourceful, he can overcome them. If he is small and narrow he will always be doing all the business he can handle, though his business be but a small fraction of what it would be and could be if he were to devote more time to management and less to clerical work.

GREAT LOVE STORIES of HISTORY

By Albert Payson Terhune

Nero and Poppaea

(Copyright by the author.)

A long train of donkeys were driven daily to the mansion of Rome's most beautiful woman, Poppaea Sabina. There they were milked. The milk was poured into a huge marble tub. In this tub Poppaea took her morning bath, on the plea that washing in donkeys' milk added to her beauty. However true or false this theory may have been, it certainly had the effect of advertising Poppaea. It even brought her to the notice of the emperor, Nero, and led to a love affair which was to cost thousands of innocent lives.

Octavius (Julius Caesar's nephew) had turned Rome from a republic to an empire, with himself as emperor. His successors kept the title without inheriting any of its originator's genius. At last a weak, foolish man named Claudius came to the imperial throne. In 49 B. C. he married his niece, Agrippina, a wicked, clever woman, who induced him to disinherit his own son and to proclaim her young son Nero as his heir. Having accomplished this, Agrippina poisoned Claudius and set Nero on the throne. The young emperor was at first a gentle and wise ruler, meekly obeying his ambitious mother's commands. But flatterers at court finally prompted him to defy her and to run the empire to suit himself—and them. Still Agrippina's influence was more or less powerful over the youth until he met Poppaea.

A Jealous Husband. Poppaea Sabina was wealthy and of patrician family. As a girl she had married a nobleman who had divorced her. Then she had married a daring young soldier and prodigal named Otho, one of Nero's boon companions. Otho loved her passionately. So when Nero, falling in love with the beautiful woman, suggested that Otho give her up, the husband flatly refused. In this refusal he was backed by Poppaea herself. Not that she cared for Otho, but she read Nero's nature, and knew that opposition would fan his fancy for her into worship. She was justified in this belief, for Nero before long found means of separating her from the heartbroken Otho.

Poppaea had made up her mind to be empress. Agrippina hated her. Nero also had a wife, Octavia. But these obstacles did not check Poppaea. One by one she cleared them away. She persuaded Nero that his mother was conspiring against him, and worked him to such a frenzy of rage and fear that he had Agrippina murdered. Next Poppaea induced him to divorce Octavia and to consent to her death. Nothing now stood in the fair adventuress' way, and she and Nero were formally married. Poppaea's ambition was gratified. She was empress of Rome. Moreover, Nero loved her so madly that her slightest wish was his law. She could frighten or cajole him into doing anything she desired. At her order one after another of his saner advisers were put to death.

And now began a period of reckless dissipation on the part of Nero and Poppaea that nearly wrecked the empire. Poppaea brought out all that was worst and naughtiest in Nero, and spurred him on to terrible deeds. Among these (which she is credited by many authorities with suggesting to her husband) was the burning of Rome in 64 A. D. While the city burned the emperor composed and sang an ode in honor of the conflagration.

The plain people had been patient under their ruler's tyranny. But the burning of their city drove them to fury. Nero was frightened. Advised by Poppaea and his flatterers, he declared the Christians had set fire to Rome and put hundreds of them to death in barbarous manner by way of pretended punishment for the crime. This for the moment pacified the people. But soon fresh inquiries on the part of the imperial couple angered them again. At last, in a fit of jealous rage, Nero one day struck Poppaea. She died from the effects of the blow. Nero mourned her loudly and long and wrote poems to her memory. But his own time of rebellion was at hand. And the man he had most wronged was to punish him.

Otho had joined with an old general named Galba in stirring up the Roman armies against Nero. He marched to Rome at the head of his legions to avenge himself on the tyrant who had robbed him of his wife. In spite of his habits Otho turned aside long enough in the march to visit the grave of Poppaea. There, weeping, he piled her last resting place with fresh flowers, and passed on to his work of vengeance.

But Nero did not await his enemies' coming. Deserted by flatterers and guards alike, he killed himself to avoid the fate he knew he must otherwise expect at Otho's hands.

"And did you enjoy your trip through Switzerland?"
"Very much. They had such attractive postcards all through that country."

"Have you got a good cook?"
"Must be. She says she goes to church every night."

"Don't get disheartened—think of the porous plaster."
"What of that?"
"Everybody turns his back on it, yet it hangs on, and in the end achieves success by close application."

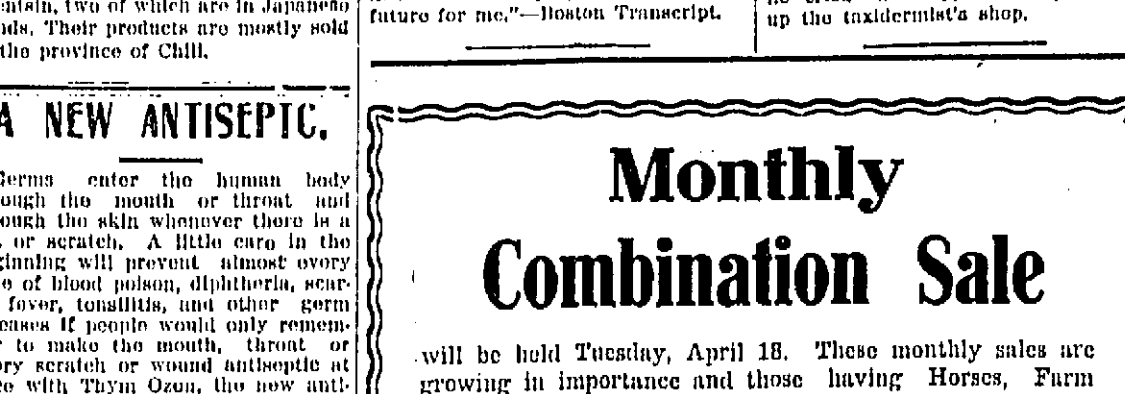

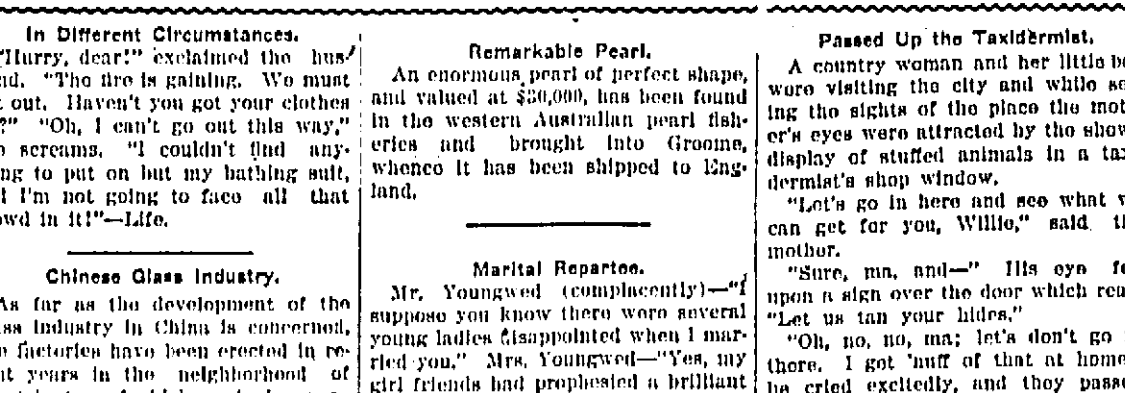

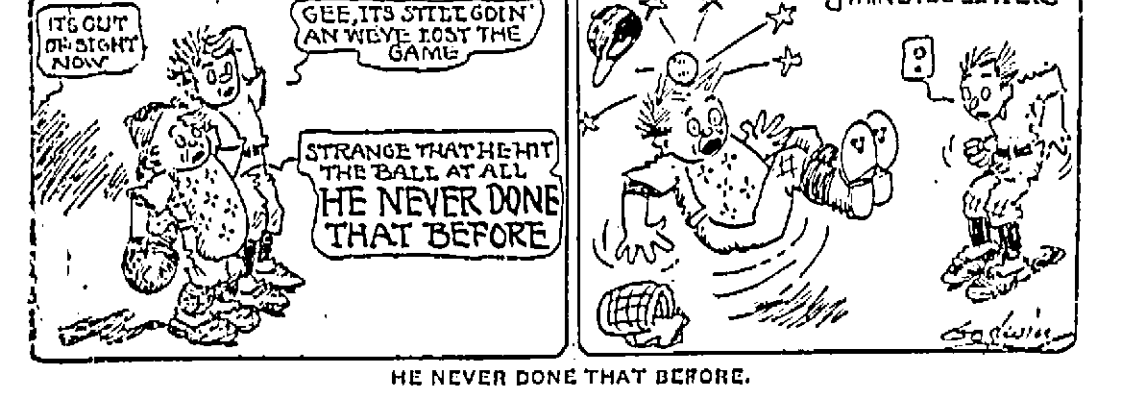

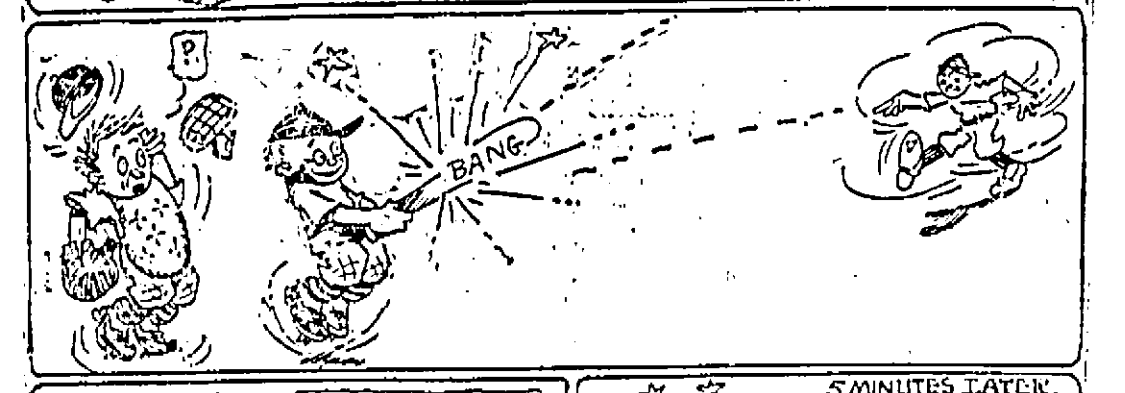

"I saw a wonderful fellow with an hour with no power this morning."
"Which was the victory death boy—you or the power?"
"Neither. I saw the fellow who had the power to provide an elaborate luncheon."

"We shouldn't ask Mrs. Green to join our bridge club next year."
"Why not?"
"She entertained us last week and actually adhered to our rule not to provide an elaborate luncheon."

"Did he have any luck on his fishing trip?"
"Enough to keep him in conversation for several weeks."

London, Eng.—Almost simultaneously in the French chamber of deputies and the British house of commons, the American-Canadian reciprocity agreement was attacked on the ground that it was an agreement which would conflict with the favorite nation clause of the present treaties. Deputy Pichon presented the argument to the chamber of deputies, while Sir Edward Grey indicated a like attitude on the part of Great Britain.

The United States maintains that it will in no way conflict with the favorite nation clause of either treaty, and that the case presents an exception to the old rule.

Her Period of Quietude.

It is said to be customary in Bulgaria for a newly married woman to exchange no conversation with any outsider during the first month following the wedding. She is permitted to open her mouth only for the necessary purpose of eating and drinking and is allowed to reply to her husband when the latter chooses to address her. To this custom is attributed the fact that the honeymoon in Bulgaria lasts an entire month.

CUBS ARE NOT FAVORITES

Winners of National League Pennant
Last Year are not Picked by Dopesters to Win—Hopes of American League Fans are on
"Phillies."

New York, April 12.—Six months of undisturbed joy for the baseball fan,
in other words the 1911 baseball season opened today in both the big leagues.

Today begins what bids fair to be the most profitable year the national game has ever known. Baseball has grown so tremendously big and is now conducted on such a comprehensive and businesslike basis that it is pretend to predict that every season will be a little better on the whole than the preceding one. Knowledge of this fact prompts President Lynch
of the National and President Johnson of the American to predict that 1911
will set a new record in attendance.

A remarkable feature of the season
now opening is that the Chicago Cubs
who won the National League pennant with ease last year, are not the favorites for the honor this year. The short end in the betting is the New York Giants, who finished second in 1910.

A symposium of views of thirty well known sporting editors in big league towns found twenty four placing their faith to New York and only three in Chicago. Of the three who picked Chicago, two were Chicago scribes.
Three also touted Pittsburgh for the flag. In the American League twenty nine of these writers selected the Philadelphia Athletics to repeat, while one lone desperado looked to Detroit for the winner.

It is easy enough to see why the Athletics should be such a unanimous choice for the team showed last season
that it is not only good, but it is difficult to see why the Cubs should run such a bad second to New York. It is probably because the Giants made such a strong finish and the Cubs went down to such inglorious defeat
before the Athletics in the world's title games.

The failure of the Cubs to repeat,
however, may be predicated on only one basis—a fall-down on the part of several of the old stars. The Chicago team that takes the field today is practically the same team that has won four of the last five National League flags. Manager Chance's combination has proved unalterable in the National League so that the only way it is likely to lose this year will be in the hit-or-miss airship machine
to "blow" or for other teams to exhibit unexpected strength.

Those who are pessimistic regarding Chicago, put the proposition this way:
There is more likelihood of Chance's veteran team becoming creaky than that the Giants, the Pirates or the Cincinnati Reds will not strike a swift and deadly gait and maintain it to the end.

It is differences of opinion that make horse races and the same holds true
in baseball. National League followers generally would not regret to see some other team than the Cubs cap
the betting for otherwise the prospect of the National League regaining the world's title is about as bright as the Alberta orange crop. The team that Connie Mack turned out last year
would, in the opinion of nine experts out of ten, trim the Cubs nearly as often as they could get together. And this is the team that Connie Mack, if fortune goes well, will hurl against the National League winners again.

When Mack was asked for the lineup for his opening game this year,
he replied "Take your score card of the first world's series game last year,
put Orlingrup in place of Strunk and you will have it." This means that the center fielder will be standing out with a vengeance. It is true that he has added a couple of pitchers
in Russell and Collamore but is doubtful if they will do more than trail
along this year and learn from watching such stars as Bender and Combs.

Practically the same situation obtains in the camp of the Cubs. Manager Chance has added Pitchers Toney
and Griffen and Outfielders Doyle and Shean but they will probably be
for emergencies and fall of regular berths.
Chance looks to be the real goods and Chance is certain he has uncovered another wonder like "King" Cole. If Toney and Griffen make good, the repeated cry that Chance's pitching staff was cracking may be found unfounded. One thing in the Cubs favor is the improved form this year of big Ed Reulbach, who was out of the game the first half of last year from an attack of diphtheria. Reulbach is now hurling in his old time form and Chance says he expects to use him in at least fifty games, counting the pieces, this year.

The Giants are still another team
that takes the field just as they left it last year, with the bare possibility that Becker may find a place in the outfield at his last moment, in place of Mudrack. The Giants got a miserable start last year, to which fact Manager McGraw attributes the loss of the pennant. This year he counts on a better beginning and has fortified his team against reverses as far as it is possible for human ingenuity to do so.
New York's chances are considered particularly good this year because of the belief that Mathewson is as good as ever and that Pitchers Raymond and Marquard will be of tremendous service to the team.

Marquard has found the thing he needed most—control. With Christy,
"Bugs" and the rest of the bunch

about the niftiest pitching staff in the National League.

The only change in the Pittsburgh
lineup is the placing of Hunter at first,
in place of Flynn. Hunter is the unlucky man who has tried to play first for the Pirates since Eddie Bransfield quit Smoketown. Some of these days Manager Clark is bound to find a good man for this bag—on the law of chances—and those who have seen him say Hunter is the man.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia will show the most chances of any of the leading teams, due to the swap of four players. Eddie Grant, according to reports, is playing a bang-up game at third for the Reds and Pitcher McQuillen, another Quaker customer, is showing great form. That Cincinnati has a good team—even a dangerous team no one will deny but the team has blazed hopes so often that it is next to impossible to consider Griffith's men
as anything more than trouble makers
for others. In Frumm and Gausman, Griffith has two men who should win
a big majority of their games if their arms remain intact.

There is the usual talk of Brooklyn and St. Louis breaking into the first division this year but if either of them does, it will be the surprise of the season. As for Boston, the verdict is that she will win the booby prize hands down. There does not seem a chance for any other team to rob her of the dishonor. If any team other than Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh

part of the last place in the American League race. Bobby Wallace's lockless Cardinals have a warranty deed to the ground floor and if there were twelve as many teams in the League, the same condition would prevail. If the Cardinals have a single strength, it has been conceived up to date. Twenty-nine of the baseball writers referred to, considered the Cardinals to the cellar, but one writer, determined to have his joke, doping St. Louis to beat out Washington.

If St. Louis does turn such a trick, there will be one manager ready to jump off the Washington Monument.
He is Jimmy McAleer, pilot of the Senators, who actually has victims of the first division this year. The victim is not now to McAleer but it is pointed in more glowing colors this year than ever before. In Johnson, Washington has one of the grandest pitchers that ever kicked on in deception. There are several other good men in McAleer's band but on the whole, the team seems to lack "unity and coherence" to borrow from the rhetoric.

The Boston Red Sox are sure to be heard from, although their work last year was disappointing. The Red Sox used to be known as the "speed Merchants", but they seem to have lost this characteristic. Manager Donovan has been gradually dropping out of the managerial firmament and it is up to him to do valiant things this year to prevent his effacement. With

Indianapolis, Ind.—Three entrants
for the 500-mile international sweepstakes race, to be held over the Indianapolis motor speedway Memorial day, are attracting unusual interest. They are Durt Adams, driver of the big Mc-Farland "6," Spencer Wishart, a wealthy young sportsman, who is to drive a giant Mercedes, and Fred Ellis, who will drive one of the regular Jackson models. All of the men have been contenders in the various automobile events of the last two seasons and have demonstrated their ability in no uncertain way.

and Cincinnati enters the first division
the dope all points to Philadelphia,
but Philadelphia is a great deal like Cincinnati, in failing to measure up to expectations.

Manager Chase's New York Highlanders, runners-up last year, are generally picked to repeat this trick, although it will not be the same team
this year. Austin at third and Laporte and Gardner at second, are gone from the lineup this year. Jack Knight, who played short last year, is doing well at second and Johnson, Hartzell and Elliott are fighting it out for the positions of third and shortstop.

It is dividing no secret to say that many New York fans doubt the managerial ability of Hal Chase. They say that a man who once deserted his team had brought about his own elevation through the medium of disorganizing cliques, is not the man to hold a team together throughout an entire season. The Highlanders look strong, especially in their batteries, and have a lot of pep, but it is feared that a hard row is ahead of them.

Already the word has gone down
the line that Comiskey's White Sox
must be watched closely this year.
Duffy's men have done wonderful work in practice and there is a feeling abroad that this is the White Sox year to finish, well to the front.
Comiskey seems to have picked up a wealth of good new material, so that his team should be well fortified at every point. Corbin, at short, looks like he would create as much talk as the barren skirt.

Hughie Jennings at Detroit says
the Tigers are going to do what the Cubs did last year; come back after their reverse and carry off the flag.
Jennings is known as a great manager
but if he beats out Connie Mack this year with his somewhat doubtful bunch of Tigers, he may well be called the greatest manager. Jennings has lost Tom Jones from first and Matty McIntyre from right field and their successors look to be men of only mediocre ability.

Cleveland fans are refraining from making any predictions, as it is realized that nearly everything depends on how Maguire's big string of young pitchers turns out. Maguire will have to rely almost entirely on youngsters in the box, as Jess, Falken-burg and Young are all tottering.
Several of the Cleveland youngsters showed well toward the close of last season, but a long grinding season,
when the whole effort has been a pitcher's stock in trade, is a different proposition. Few experts pick Cleveland for the upper berth.

BASE BALL SCORES WILL ATTRACT MANY

Big Series Start Today—Gazette Will Furnish Them to Several Places
of Business in the City.

This afternoon the teams of the American and National baseball leagues. The Gazette has made arrangements to supply the scores, runs,
hits and errors to several firms
throughout the city where the interested fans can see them. They will also be posted in the window at the Gazette office as fast as received. The scores will also be found in the following places of business:

East Side of the River,
Hockett's Bowling Alleys,
The Brook,
Thomas Abbotts,
West Side of the River
E. B. Connors,
Miller's Pool Rooms,
DeLaney and Murphy Cigar Store.
The eastern games will be received first and the western games as fast as completed. The scores are received by the Gazette from the Associated Press office in Chicago over the Postal Telegraph wires.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Jimmy Collins will again play third base for Providence, and also manage the team.
Jimmy Pastorius, the former Brooklyn pitcher, has signed with Dan Shay's Kansas City team.

Catcher Lou Criger, recently released by the Highlanders will quit the game and retire to his farm in Michigan.

Manager Clarke of the Pirates has picked Camnitz, White and Leffell to be his leading pitchers this season.
One more old boy has passed from under the big top. The Cubs have released "Ginger" Beaumont to the St.
Paul club.

Walter Ford, a brother of "Boss"
Ford, the New York star, has signed to manage the Amherst team in the Southern league.

Fred Beck, the former Dove, now with Cincinnati, has his eye on the ball this spring and is cracking out the safe one.

Wade Kilmer refuses to join the Minneapolis team and says that he prefers to stay in Paw Paw, Mich.
Minneapolis has had as that?

After twenty-two years in the game
Jim Connor has retired from baseball. In 1895-96 Jim was one of the stars with the Chicago Nationals.

Pitcher Frank Smith and Third baseman Partell have trained in California four years in succession, three times with the Chicago and this year with Boston.

With a large bunch of ex-big leaguers on his team, Joe Kelly figures that Toronto will just about make a grand cleaning in the Eastern league
this season.

Good news for the American league
pitchers—The Athletics are doing poor work with the stick this year. Baker has been able to make only seven home runs in four successive games.

Members of the White Sox squad
say that Catcher Drake of the Oklahoma City team, has the real talent
and is on his way to the big show.
Drake is a brother of the "Giant" pitcher.

When the bell rings today
"Nap" Lajoie, of the Cleveland team, will start his sixteenth season in the major leagues. "Larry" has been in the game a long time but he is still able to show the way to the youngsters.

WITH THE BOXERS.

One Dublin has been appointed physician director of the Princess A. C. of New York.

Jack Dillon has signed to box Tony Caponi in Wimpsey the latter part of the month.

Eddie McGahey, the Oaklough middleweight, now in England, has not been able so far to induce Jim Sullivan, the English champion to meet him.

Ad. Wolgast will be kept pretty busy during the next three months. The champion has agreed to matches with
"One Round" Hogan, Frankie Burns
and Owen Moran.

The Doors of Old South.
The restoration of the interior of the Old South meeting house is rapidly progressing. From many odd quarters parts of the old furnishings have been collected and placed in their original positions. The pulpit of 1867 is there, with the mahogany wineglass reading desk, but careful search and inquiry failed to locate the two mahogany doors which formed the entrance to the pulpit on each side. These doors were of peculiar curved shape and would be quite useless for any other purpose. This has given rise to the hope that they are still in existence and that with great publicity of the need the one in whose possession they now are will be found.—Boston Transcript.

The BRONZE BELL

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
AUTHOR OF "THE BRASS BOWL" ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY MAX WALTERS

"Husband! Grant—hewen! Look here, my dear, hadn't you better come to your senses and let me go before—"

"Let thee go, Lalji, ere what? Ere any come to disturb us? Nay, but who should come between husband and wife in the first hour of their reunion after many years of separation? Is it not known—does not all Khandawar know how I have waited for thee, at—"

The Scarlet Lips Curled and the Eyes Grew Cold and Hard.

most thy widow ere thy wife, all this weary time? . . . Or is it that thy heart hath forgotten thy child bride? Am I scorned, O my lord—L. Naraini? Is there no love in thy bosom to leap in response to the love of thee that is my life?"

She released him and whirled a pace or two away, draperies swirling, jewels scintillating cold fire in hopeless emulation of the radiance of her tear-gemmed eyes.

"Naraini!" stammered Amber, recalling what he had heard of the woman. "Naraini!"

"Aye, my lord, thy wedded wife!" The rounded little chin went up a trifle and her eyes gleamed angrily. "Am I no longer thy Naraini, then? Or, wouldst thou, deny that thou art Naraini, my king and my beloved? Hast thou indeed forgotten the child that was given thee for wife when thy father reigned in Khandawar, and thou wert but a boy—a boy of ten, the Maharaj Naraini? Hast thou forgotten the little maid they brought thee from the north, Lalji—the maiden who had grown to womanhood ere thy return from thy travels to take up thy father's crown? . . . Alas! Thou canst never forget, beloved; though years and the multitude of faces have come between us as a veil, thou dost remember—even as thou dost remember when the message of the Bell came to thee across the great black waters, and thou didst learn that the days of thy exile were numbered, that the hour approached when again thou shouldst sit in the place of thy fathers, and rule the world as once they ruled it."

A denial stuck in Amber's throat. The words would not come, nor would they, he believed, have served his purpose could he have commanded them. If he had found no argument elsewhere to persuade Salig Singh, he found none whereby to refute the claim of this golden-faced woman who recognized him for her husband. He was wholly dismayed and aghast. But while he lingered in indecision, staring in the woman's face, her look of petulance was replaced by one of divine forgiveness and compassion. And she gave him no time to think or to avoid her; in a twinkling she had thrown herself upon him again, was in his arms and crushing her lips upon his.

"Nay," she murmured, "but I did wrong thee, beloved? Perchance," she told him, archly, "thou didst not think to see me so soon, or in this garden? Perchance surprise hath robbed thee of thy wits—and thy tongue as well, O worthless one? Or thou art overcome with joy, as I am overcome, and smitten dumb by it, as I am not? Aho, Lalji! was ever a woman at loss for words to voice her happiness?" And nestling to him she laughed quietly, with a note as tender and sweet as the cooing of a wood-dove to his mate.

"Nay, but there is a mistake." He recovered the power of speech tardily, and would have put her from him; but she held tight to him. "I am not thy husband, nor yet a rajput. I come from America, the far land where thy husband died. . . . Nay, it doth pain me to hurt thee so, Ranees, but the mistake is not of my making, and it hath been carried too far. Thy husband died in my presence—"

"It is so, then!" she cut him short. And his arms were suddenly empty, to his huge relief. "Indeed, they had warned me that thou wouldst tell this story and deny me—why, I know not, unless it be that thou art unworthy of thy lineage, a coward and a weakling!" Her small foot stamped angrily and on every limb of her round body bracelets and anklets clashed and shimmered. "And so thou hast returned only to forever me and thy kingdom, O thou of little spirit!" The scarlet lips curled and the eyes grew cold and hard with contempt. "If that be so, tell me, why hast thou returned at all? To die? For that thou must surely come to, if it be in thy mind to defy the behests of the Voice, thou long without a kingdom!"

Why, then, art thou here, rather than running to hide in some far place, thinking to escape with thy worthless life—worthless even to thee, who art too craven to make a man's use of it—from the Vengeance of the Body?"

. . . Dost think I am to be tricked and hoodwinked—L, in whose heart thine image hath been enshrined these many weary years?"

"I neither think, nor know, nor greatly care, Ranees," Amber interposed, wearily. "Doubtless I deserve thine anger and scorn, since I am not he who thou wouldst have me be. If death must be my portion for this offense, for that I resemble Naraini Dyal Rutton. . . . then it is written that I am to die. My business here in Khandawar hath concern neither with thee, nor with the state, nor yet with the Gateway of Swords—of the very name of which I am weary. . . . Now, with his mouth settled in lines of unshakable resolve, "I will go; nor do I think that there be any here to stop me."

He wheeled about, prepared to fight his way out of the palace, if need be. Indeed, it was in his mind that a death there was as easy as an hour after sunrise; for he had little doubt but that he was to die if he remained outside, and the hospitality of the rajput would cease to protect him the moment he set foot upon the marble bound of his bungalow.

But the woman sprang after him and caught his arm. "Of thy pity," she begged, breathlessly, "hold for a space until I have taken thought."

Then, knowing that if what thou hast told me be the truth, then am I widow before my time—widowed and doomed!"

"Doomed?"

"Aye!" And there was real terror in her eyes and voice. "Doomed to sail, for, since I am a widow—since thou dost maintain thou art not my husband—then my face hath been looked upon by a man not of mine own people, and I am dishonored. Fire alone can cleanse me of that defilement—the pyre and the death by flame!"

"Good God! you don't mean that! Surely that custom has perished!"

"Thou shouldst know that it dieth not. What to us women in whose bodies runs the blood of royalty, is an edict of your English government? What the Sirkar itself to us in Khandawar?" She laughed bitterly. "I am Rohilla, a daughter of kings; my dishonor may be purged only by flame. Arret that I should live to meet with such a fate—L, Naraini, to perish in the flower of my beauty. . . . For I am beautiful, am I not?" She dropped the veil which instinctively she had caught across her face, and met his gaze with childish coquetry, torn though she seemed to be by fear and disappointment.

"Thou art assuredly most beautiful, Ranees," Amber told her, with a break in his voice, very compassionate. And he spoke, simple truth. "Of thy kind there is none more lovely in the world. . . ."

"There was tenderness then in your tone, my lord!" she caught him up quickly. "Is there no mercy in thy heart for me? . . . Who is this woman across the sea who hath won thy love? . . . Aye, even that I know—that thou dost love this fair daughter of the English. Didst thou not lose the picture of her that was taken with the magic box of the mahibs? . . . Is it for her sake that thou dost deny me, O my husband? Is she more fair than I, are her lips more sweet?"

"I am not thy husband," he declared vehemently, appalled by her reversal to that delusion. "Till this hour I have never seen thee; nor is the salubrious of any concern to thee. Let me go, please."

But she had him fast and he could not have shaken her off but with violence. He had been a strong man indeed who had not been melted to tenderness by her beauty and her distress. She lifted her glorious face to him, pleading, insistent, and played upon him with her voice of gold. "Yet a moment gone thou didst tell me I was greatly gifted with beauty. Have I changed in thine eyes, O my king? Canst thou look upon this poor beauty and hear me tell thee of my love—and indeed I am thine, altogether thine, Lalji!—and hasten thy heart against me?"

. . . What though it be as thou hast said? What though thou art of a truth not of the house of Rutton, nor yet a rajput? Let us say that this is so, however hard it be to credit; even so, am I not reward enough for thy renunciation?"

"I know not thy meaning, Ranees."

"Come, then, and I will show thee, my king. Come thou with me. . . . Nay, why shouldst thou falter? There is naught for thee to fear—save me. She tucked at his hand and laughed low, in a voice that sang like smitten glasses. "Come, beloved!"

Unwillingly, he humored her. This could not last long. . . . The woman half led, half dragged him to the northern boundary of the garden, where they entered a little turret built out from the walls over an abyss fully three hundred feet in depth. And here, standing upon the verge of the parapet, with night but a tooth-like coping between her and the frightful fall, utterly fearless and unutterably lovely, Naraini flung out a bare, jeweled arm in an eloquent gesture.

"See, my king!" she cried, her voice vibrant, her eyes kindling as they met his. "Look down upon thy kingdom. North, south, east, west—look!" she commanded. "Wherever thine eyes may turn, and farther than they can see upon the clearest day, this land is all thine. . . . for the taking. Look and tell me thou hast strength to renounce it. . . . and me, beloved!"

She opened her arms with infinite allure. "It is so little that is asked of thee—only to ascend thy father's throne and be honored of all Bharuta, only to wield the scepter that is thine by right, only to relax an undisciplined king in two kingdoms—Khandawar and thy Naraini's heart!"

"I am very sorry," he returned. "It is quite impossible. Besides, it seems that you leave the sirkar altogether out of your calculations. It may not have occurred to you that the supreme government of India may have something to say about the contemplated change."

He saw her bite her lips with chagrin, and the look she flashed to his face was anything but kind and tender. "Arro!" she laughed derisively. "And of what account is this frail, tottering sirkar's will besides the will of the Body? Of what avail its dicta against the rulings of the Bell? Thou knowest—"

"Pardon, I know nothing. I have told thee, Ranees, that I am not Naraini Dyal Rutton."

She was mistress of a thousand artifices, brought to a standstill on one line of attack, she diverged to another without a quiver of an eyelash to betray her discomfiture.

"Yes, thou hast told me," she purred. "But I, Naraini, I know what I know. Thou dost deny thyself even as thou dost deny me, but . . . art thou willing to be put to the proof, my king?"

"If you've any means of proving my identity, I would thank you for making use of it, Ranees."

"There is the test of the Token, Lalji."

"I am not aware of it."

"The test of the Token—the ring that was brought to thee, the signet of thy house. Surely thou hast it with thee?"

The Colonial Rug.

The old hand-made rug, sometimes called the Martha Washington, has come into vogue again. It is particularly effective and appropriate for bedrooms where simple mahogany furniture and soft, gray papering is used.

The rugs are made of long tubes of silk, soft lured and low toned in color, tufted with cotton. Three separate strands are plaited together and then this plait, starting from a solid center, is wound round and round, being caught securely into place, the circle becoming ever wider until the required size of the rug is reached.

Some are oblong, but more often round ones are seen. They help to give quite an old-time touch to a room, an effect which is eagerly sought for these days.

He Violated the Law.

When New York on Thursday morning unexpectedly found her streets coated with March ice, a humane man, chanting on a sidewalk covered a portion of the concrete with ashes, as he could not endure the slipping of the poor horses.

A rival across the street saw his opportunity. He obtained a warrant for the man who had strown the ash.

The judge heard the evidence, and gave his verdict. "This man," he said, "is certainly guilty—guilty of a meritorious and humane act. I fine him one cent, and the sentence is suspended during good behavior. You take with you, sir, the thanks of the court."

She Misunderstood.

"Dear,"

"Well?"

"I'd like to talk to you about a second—"

"Why, dear, I ain't never thought of outlinin' you, but if I should I've thought I'd like Mr. Jinx to be my second, ho—now what in the nation is the matter of him?"

Need of Ideals.

Mankind always needs ideals which loom so large in the sight of men that they cannot fail to see them clearly. More than ever is this true of today, for the turmoil and the hurry of modern life raise a great dust which often-times hides the skies. Enthusiasm, dreams, hopes are to be encouraged, and belong to youth, which ever renews itself in warm hearts, although reason is needed to cool and guide them. The fact that we believe that our ideal is beautiful and holy is not ground for forcing it on our mates. To win success a man must not be a pure idealist, also in practical things he will fail; but he must have ideals and he must obey them.—Henry L. Higginson in the Atlantic.

"Knocked Daylights Out of Rheumatism"

New Rheumatism Remedy Is Antidote For Uric Acid.

"My friend, I got a whole case of 'Knocked Daylights' out of my rheumatism, and I am cured of my 3-year case of bull-dog."

Inflammatory rheumatism. I didn't need the dozen, you bet you—three bottles knocked the daylight right out of it and cured me completely. The other nine bottles I gave to my rheumatic friends, and they are happy as clams. Well, my friend, I am cured. 'Knocked Daylights' is a wonder."

"This is but one of hundreds of similar reports on the amazing remedy, the only known antidote to uric acid. Furthermore, it is as safe as food, containing no alcohol, opium, morphine, cocaine, alcohol, or any other stimulant or narcotic of any kind."

"'Knocked Daylights' cures all the rheumatic troubles, such as rheumatism, gout, lumbago and kidney trouble."

"Don't hesitate but get 'Knocked Daylights' right off and get cured. It is a bottle by all leading druggists, or will be sent prepaid on receipt of price, or on receipt of price, by the Farnham Remedy Co., Filad, Pa."

A severe frost visited this locality last evening which it is feared will injure the buds on the more forward varieties of trees. This little relapse of winter is more disastrous than to have the old fellow remember the last of spring with his continuous presence.

"Lorna Doone."
 "Lorna Doone" is practically one more illustration of "Single-Speech Hamilton." After its appearance its author wrote and published steadily for thirty years, but the fact remains that not only is "Lorna" his best known work, but that his entire reputation hangs upon it. Many of his other stories are good, notably "Cripps the Carrier" and "Perjury"; the latter has a most ingenious plot, but those two now peacefully repose with their mates in undisturbed slumber in dusty library corners. Mr. Blackmore offered his buyers all sorts of wares,
 but after a momentary examination
 they declined what was "Just as Good," and returned to their favorite, which, by the way, was never his. He ranked it third among his productions.
 This novel is not only one of the best-loved books in English fiction and stands magnificently the reverse test of re-reading. It is bound to have more admirers in the future than it has ever yet enjoyed. It is visibly growing in reputation every year.—
 Phelps, Essays on Modern Novelists.

A Ready Excuse.

 "No it does," answered the modern is given her morning bath and powder she is sprinkled with talcum powder. Some of it must have accidentally fallen into the milk."
